

FEAR LAKE STEAMER AND
BARGE ARE LOST WITH 30
MEMBERS OF THEIR CREWS

Sault Ste Marie, Mich.—Much anxiety was expressed in marine circles here Monday for the safety of the steamer Thomas Mayhew and her tow-barge the Tyrone, more than two days overdue, down-bound, here.

Vessels passing here Sunday reported having seen the Mayhew and her barge leaving Fort William as they entered that harbor last Thursday, before the storm which wrecked the steamer Maplehurst, with loss of eleven lives. There have been two days of good sailing weather since the storm.

The two missing vessels are owned by the General Transit company, Cleveland. The Mayhew has a crew of 26 and the Tyrone 10.

The steamer Deles Clark, Great Lakes Transit package freighter, grounded in St. Mary's river south of this city, and a hole was torn in its hull. Its steering cable is said to have broken, throwing it out of its course.

HUGHES PLEDGES U.S.
AID TO THE AMERICAS
TO PRESERVE PEACE

Welcomes Conference of Central American Nations to Washington

PRAISES IMPROPER WORK
OF CONFERENCE IN 1907

Step Forward Though Agreements Were Not All Carried Out

WASHINGTON, D. C.—With the United States not only as host and sponsor, but taking the part of a full participant in the conference of Central American republics began Monday in the Pan-American union amid mutual expressions of confidence that its discussions would inaugurate a new era of Central American peace and stability.

Hughes Gives Welcome

Secretary Hughes, as presiding officer of the conference and head of the delegation representing the United States, welcomed the delegates of the other five nations in the name of President Harding, but did not amplify the program of the conference as already outlined in the invitation sent out from Washington.

The heads of each of the five central American delegations responded. Francisco Sanchez Latour, speaking for Guatemala; Francisco Martinez Sagie for Salvador; Dr. Don Alberto Ure for Honduras; Emilio Chamorro for Nicaragua; and Jose Coronado for Costa Rica.

"It is a high privilege to extend to you on behalf of the president of the United States, a most cordial welcome," said Mr. Hughes.

Promises Co-operation

"You will find here the most friendly atmosphere, the most spirit of co-operation and an intimate desire to add to the furtherance of your own as well as for an abiding peace and a constantly increasing prosperity."

"The interest of the United States is found in the peace of this hemisphere and in the conservation of your interests."

"The same desire which now animates you prompted the Central American peace conference of the year 1907. The passing of the years, the important changes recently wrought, the spectacle of the devastating results of war, have heightened your determination to consider the fundamental requisites of stability and development."

"Your purpose, manifested in your cordial acceptance of the invitation of the government of the United States, is to build on foundations already laid, the basis of a new era of peace and stability in order that you may apply the wisdom of experience in devising improved methods."

A Step Forward

"I shall not attempt to review the conference of 1907, because all that was hoped for was not attained in practice, because all stipulations then agreed upon have not been found to be effective, its results should not be depreciated. It was a decisive forward step. The spirit of co-operation which it fostered is still dominant, despite all difficulties."

"Believing that a great advance had been made towards peace and stability and that the friendly relations and the prosperity of their peoples could still further be assured by a frank exchange of views and recommendations, the government of the United States invited the governments of the Central American republics to send their plenipotentiaries to Washington for this conference."

MARINETTE AGREES TO PLAY SUPERIOR
ONLY IN THE EAST

MARINETTE, Wis.—Marinette high school, victorious over the West Allis eleven last Saturday by the score of 41 to 6, stands ready to meet Superior Central high or any other high school in the state, in a game next Saturday at either Green Bay or Menominee, Michigan, to decide the state high school football championship, local high school officials announced today.

Marinette officials stand firm in their request to have the game played in Green Bay or Menominee.

Turks Upbraided for Failing to Present Any Concrete Plans

TCHITCHERIN ATTACKS
CONTROL BY ALLIES

Delegates Declare Russian Attitude Provocative

LAUSANNE.—By The Associated Press.—All delegates to the near east conference approached today's session with the conviction that the critical moment of the discussions was at hand.

The great problem of today—that of the Dardanelles—is virtually interesting to all the powers, including the United States. The Russian delegates were to make their first appearance at the conference at this session.

Turkey wants the straits open to Turkish warships alone, but Europe and America desire the waterway free to the naval craft of the entire world. The treaty of Sevres for which Lausanne must find a substitute, opens the straits to the merchantmen and warships of all the powers in peace and war but no blockade or act of war is permissible unless authorized by the league of nations.

No Turkish Plan

Ismet Pasha, in his address to the conference, astonished the delegates by revealing that he had not completely worked out a plan for the control of the straits. He merely said that Turkey must have means of protecting Constantinople the seat of the sultanate and also the Sea of Marmora. But when pressed by Lord Curzon, he failed to present a complete plan. He said he felt it to be the duty of the other powers to express their views before the Turks did.

Lord Curzon declared the Turks were trifling with the conference by not having any definite proposals.

Russia Puts in Oar

In replying to a taunt by Mr. Tchitcherine that troops and ships would not influence the settlement of the problem of the straits and that the retention of the straits was not possible, Lord Curzon said that while he hoped foreign troops and ships would not be a permanent factor in the straits, yet they were there now and they were a definite factor in the Near Eastern situation.

Russia, Mr. Tchitcherine said, would never accept the allies as the only means to decide the destiny of the straits. He insisted that the allied occupation of the straits should cease immediately.

Several of the entente representatives, after the session, characterized Mr. Tchitcherine's address as aggressive and provocative and expressed the view that if the Russian attitude were persisted in it would endanger the success of the settlement of the straits problem.

JOSEPH LINSE IS KILLED IN SLIGHT FALL

Well Known Farmer Fractures Spinal Column When His Head Strikes Side of Frozen Rut

FATAL STUMBLE OCCURS WHEN HE GOES OUT TO SEE STOCK

Dead Body Found by Wife Half Way Between House and Barn

STUMBLING and falling in a frozen rut in his barnyard, Joseph A. Linse, one of the best known dairymen and a life long resident of the county, was instantly killed when his head struck the frozen ground at his home in Mormon coulee between 9 and 10 o'clock Saturday night.

Mr. Linse, as was his custom, left the house to go out to the barn to see if the cows were all right, before retiring, shortly after 9 o'clock. A half hour later Mrs. Linse walked out toward the barn to see why her husband had not returned. She found his dead body in the yard, half way between the house and barn, the head lying at the edge of a deep wagon rut.

Physicians who were called found that Mr. Linse had sustained a fracture of the base of the skull in his fall and declared that death must have been instantaneous. The conclusion was that he had stumbled and fallen, his head striking the edge of the frozen rut in such a manner as to cause the fracture of the spinal column at the base of the skull.

Born on the Farm

Mr. Linse was born on the farm where he lived, eight miles from the city in Mormon coulee, 50 years ago and had resided there all his life. He had conducted the farm since the death of his father, Charles Linse. He was active in community and political affairs in the coulee and had represented the town of Shelby on the county board and school board. He was known as a progressive farmer and had one of the handsomest and best equipped farms in the county.

Surviving are his wife, three sons, Carl, Carl and Reinhold; three daughters, Miss Orma, a teacher in the Shelby school, and Helen and Marjorie, who are students in the La Crosse high school; three brothers, Will Linse, La Crosse; Adolph, Mormon coulee; and Charles of Chippewa Falls; and five sisters, Mrs. Anna Schams, La Crosse; Mrs. Ida Schmecker, Mukwonago; Mrs. Marilla Sonn, Minneapolis; Miss Julia Linse, Rome, Italy; and Mrs. Margaret Brown of Cleveland, O.

Funeral Tuesday

The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence and at 2:30 from the German Reformed church in Mormon coulee. Rev. Henry Andreas officiating.

TIMOTHY HEALY TO BE FIRST GOVERNOR OF ERIN;
NEW RULE STARTS TUESDAY

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—The house of lords Monday passed the third and final reading of the Irish constitution bill. Only royal sanction is now required to make it law.

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—The appointment of Timothy Healy as the first governor general of the Irish Free State, is now regarded as a certainty. It is understood that the post was offered to him some time ago and that its final allotment to the veteran champion of Irish autonomy, depended only upon his acceptance.

That acceptance, according to several of the best informed correspondents in Dublin, has now been given and the consensus of opinion Monday was that the announcement "that the king has been pleased to appoint" will immediately follow the declaration of his majesty's assent to the Irish bill, which will pass its third and final reading in the house of lords tonight.

The daily press meets Monday for the last time as the provisional parliament of Ireland. It assembles Tuesday as one of the three states of the new Irish realm. The others are the king, represented by the governor-general, and the senate, which has not yet been formed.

Reports from Dublin tell of the continued energy of the provisional government to forestall any last minute attempts to prevent the final establishment of the Free State administration.

Siki said that once he was in the ring with a crowd of 50,000 people acclaiming him and conscious of his own strength he had had a revelation of feeling, despite reminders from his corner, during his minute's rest after the third round, and had decided to go in and win.

Again referring to her brother, who was a well known dental supply man in this city, Madame Meluis said: "He was more than a brother to me. He was the one who was most instrumental in my success as a singer. He encouraged me during the early days of my studies, and made possible a great deal of my musical education."

The La Crosse Music Study club was highly praised by the talented singer, who said that the people of the city organization of the sort to bring great artists here. She spoke especially of Mrs. P. D. Cliley, through whose efforts, she said, the engaging of artists has been made possible. In this connection Madame Meluis voiced the opinion that a city of the size of La Crosse should have an auditorium in which to hold the concerts of the visiting celebrities. BIG NASH TOURING
CAR CRASHES INTO

Three Occupants of Machine Narrowly Escape Death Early Sunday Morning

A. H. HUTCHINSON, ONTARIO
OWNER OF WRECKED MACHINE

Driver Has Slight Injuries; Women Disappear

THREE occupants of a big Nash touring car owned and driven by A. H. Hutchinson, Ontario, narrowly escaped death or serious injury when the machine crashed into a light pole at Seventh street and Mormon coulee road about 5 o'clock Sunday morning, police reported Monday. The pole was snapped off ten inches above the ground and the car wrecked.

Another accident involving the machine of Max Sherman occurred on the north side about one o'clock Monday morning.

Women Disappear

With Hutchinson in the Mormon coulee road accident were two women whose identity was only learned as "Ida and her sister." They are believed to be girls making their home in this city. According to a report circulated in police circles both of the women disappeared immediately from the scene of the accident and have not been seen since.

Hutchinson was removed to the Lutheran hospital for treatment at 5:30 Sunday morning. Physicians at the institution stated that his injuries were not serious, sustaining only two small lacerations in his hand. He was discharged from the hospital about 1 o'clock Sunday evening. It was said, "What injuries, if any, were sustained by the women was not known at Central police station."

That occupants of the machine miraculously escaped death or injury was the verdict of many curious citizens who viewed the machine at the La Crosse Taxi company garage Monday morning. The machine was virtually a complete wreck, with the left front wheel dished underneath the car and the entire running board on the left side entirely missing. The front seat was torn loose so that it could be lifted out of the machine in addition to a wrecked top and left fenders.

Speeding is Belief

In snapping of the light pole ten inches above the ground it was evident that the machine was traveling at great speed when the crash came. The car was towed in by the Elsen and Phillips wrecker to the taxi company garage later in the morning.

Police reported that an automobile owned by Max Sherman dashed into a concrete stepping stone in front of the residence of Mrs. A. Rice, 321 Mill street, about 1:30 Monday morning. No one was believed to have been injured in this accident.

President Harding Points Out that Largest Part of Bill is Included in Fixed Charges

ONLY WAY TO REDUCE TO CUT STATE AID, HE SAYS

Hope to Wipe Out Deficit of Current Year in Next Few Months

WASHINGTON.—President Harding, in transmitting the annual federal budget for the next fiscal year, frankly told congress that whether there was to be any material reduction in government expenditures and in taxes in future years, would depend largely on whether there was to be a curtailment or expansion of federal aid in lines of research, improvement and development.

Cut Half Billion

Placing the estimated government outlay in 1924 at over three billions, a decrease of about $500,000,000 as compared with estimates for this fiscal year, Mr. Harding called attention that two-thirds of this total was on account of practically fixed charges, such as the public debt, national defense, pensions, world war allowances and federal aid. There was left, he said, only about one billion dollars in charges subject to administrative control and against which, he added, the retrenchment policy of the government had been directed.

While expressing the opinion that some further reduction undoubtedly would result from a reorganization of government establishments on a more scientific basis, the president said this alone would not affect such a material cut in operating costs as would justify the expression of hope for a considerable drop in expenditures in the years to come.

Taking up the question of federal aid the executive declared that this was a rapidly broadening field of expenditure and that there was a question as to how far the government should participate in it. He added that it did not pertain to the normal functions or operations of the business of government.

Meets Popular Demand

"These extraneous activities," he continued, "have flowed from laws enacted pursuant to popular demand, and I take this occasion to refer to them for the purpose of showing that the taxation which necessarily results in providing funds to meet them is a necessary incident to the fulfillment of the popular demand."

"In the efforts which have been directed to reducing public expenditures, I have been much concerned in apparently increasing state, county and municipal indebtedness, and I am fearful lest this condition may be in part attributable to the expenditures made by the government pursuant to its federal aid laws, as many of these state laws require state contributions as a pre-requisite to the extension of the federal aid."

The summary of the budget for 1924 as given to congress shows an estimated excess of receipts over expenditures next year of $180,969,125 as compared with an estimated deficit of $273,338,712 for this fiscal year. The president said, however, that he was hopeful that the estimated deficit for 1923 could be reduced in the remaining seven months and that the close of the year next June 30 would show a balanced account.

Estimated expenditures of $3,180,843,234, for 1924, which are exclusive of the postal service, compared with estimated appropriations of $3,078,940,331 for the same period, Mr. Harding explained that the expenditures would represent actual cash withdrawals from the treasury, including some on account of appropriations in previous years.

Sees Postal Deficit

Another deficit in postal operations was forecast for this year, but Mr. Harding said it was estimated that through proper readjustments there would be a surplus of postal revenues over expenditures in 1924, amounting to $952,459. For this year postal costs were placed at $559,936,841, or an estimated deficiency of $31,502,570, as compared with an actual deficiency in the last fiscal year of $64,346,234. The 1924 costs are given at $584,653,151.

The president told congress that an appropriation of $250,552,887 recommended for the army would provide for a regular force of 12,000 officers and 125,000 enlisted men, exclusive of the Philippine scouts, which is the strength now authorized by congress and would enable the militia bureau

INTERESTING ADDRESS GIVEN
BY REV. CARTWRIGHT OF CHINA

State Conference Comes to a
Close Here on Sunday

The closing sessions of the 20th Annual Older Boys' Conference Sunday left all of the delegates present with a new determination to return to their respective homes, Sunday School classes, and organizations, and dedicate a portion of their lives to the service of Christianity.

The afternoon session, Sunday, was held at the first Congregational Church, at 3 o'clock, with Lowell Prantsch, conference president presiding. Pipe organ selections by Professor Charles Weiss of La Crosse were the first thing on the program, after which a short devotional service was held. A vocal number by the First M. E. quartette followed. The members of the quartet were: Mrs. P. A. Pruss, Miss Gladys Schaller, Dr. H. J. Marshall, Dr. J. S. Otten, with Professor P. W. Rawstron as the organist.

The presiding officer then read a number of telegrams received from other conferences which were being held in different states at the same time as the one here in La Crosse.

Dr. Cartwright Talks
The featured part of the program for the day was an address by Rev. P. T. Cartwright, of Foochow, China. He spoke on the subject of the will of man and its connection to the will of God. His speech was very inspiring. The main point of his talk was to the effect that the will of man must give itself up to the will of God if the man wishes to be a true Christian, believing in the supreme power of God. To do this, means surrender, service, and sacrifice, and Rev. Cartwright explained each one of these and gave examples of each element of a true Christian character.

As an example of service he cited the story of a famous baseball player, Babe Ruth, who a year ago shined majestically above all others as the slugger on the baseball diamond. This last year, he was made a fool of by come-back pitchers who continually struck him out. He was sneered at from all sides. One day the leading sport editors at New York invited him to a dinner and after they had filled him with many good things to eat, each one in turn got up and slammed him with every kind of speech that came to their tongues. He withdrew with anger at first. Finally he showed that he had the manhood in him to get up and tell these men that they were correct. He had followed the white lights of New York and had not given his will over to his manager. He was sorry and left immediately for his farm in New England where he swears to stay until the next training season opens and he will come back to the diamond after swinging the axe on his farm for a year, ready to do a great bit of service to his friends and to himself. If he has these elements which are demanded by the will of God over man, Babe Ruth will come back next year at the top of the slugging list.

People Are Divided
The speaker also made very clear the condition of the world today when he said that the people of the world are divided into two sets one standing for one set of ideals, and the other for another set of ideals. The first believes only in materialism, while the second recognizes a greater outside power, which is planning the world and which has always done the planning of the world. Materialism gives the individual the thought that there is nothing more to him than his body and a mortal mind which is continually trying to

TRAFFIC VIOLATORS FORCED TO VIEW AUTO VICTIM'S FUNERAL

A sentence unique in the annals of traffic law violations was that imposed on six motorists of Cleveland recently. They were made to attend the funeral of a traffic victim. Traffic Judge Sawicki, in passing out this sentence, said he intended it as an object lesson to reckless motorists. The six who were sentenced had been arrested on various charges of violating the traffic ordinances, but had nothing to do with the death of the child whose funeral they were forced to attend. The victim was seven-year-old Catherine Gilmore, who was killed by a speeding automobile in front of her home. Above is shown the flower-covered casket being escorted into St. Philip Neri's Church by some of the child's schoolmates. At right the six motorists, under police guard, are shown entering the church. The text of the funeral sermon was "Thou shalt not kill."

STATE PAYS FIRST BENEFITS ON ITS TEACHER INSURANCE

Families of Four State Leaders to Get Total of $73,000

MADISON, Wis.—The first death benefits awarded under the new Wisconsin teachers retirement fund, totaling $73,000 were submitted by the annuity board Monday to Henry Johnson, state treasurer, for payment. Beneficiaries of four prominent Wisconsin educators who have died recently are to receive the payments made possible by enactment of the retirement law by the 1921 legislature. The annuity in each case is to be paid in one lump sum, as a result of a recent opinion by the attorney general holding that such payment was sanctioned by the law.

The estate of the late D. L. D. Harvey, former president of Stout Institute, and a prominent educator of school for 50 years, are to receive $20,000 from the state fund, the annuity board award shows. Beneficiaries of Lyden W. Briggs, an instructor in the Oshkosh Normal school for 50 years, are to receive $29,100 from the state, the estate of R. B. Dudgeon, superintendent of schools for Madison, is to receive $17,000 and the state of V. L. McGaskill, former president of Superior Normal school is to receive $7,000.

Women of some 50 nations now whiten teeth in this way

Do you know that millions of people, all the world over, are now cleaning teeth in a new way? One result is whiter, prettier teeth. You see them everywhere today.

If you don't know that method, we urge you to make this delightful test. See what it means to you.

Why teeth discolor

Teeth are coated with a viscous film. You can feel it now. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it, then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film, which no ordinary tooth paste can effectively combat. So, under old methods, tooth troubles constantly increased, and beautiful teeth were less often seen than today.

Two combatants now

Dental science, after long research, found two ways to fight film. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. These two great film combatants were embodied in it. Now this Pepsodent has come into world-wide use, largely by dental advice.

Other new effects

Other results were found to be essential, and Pepsodent brings them. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits, for they may ferment and form acids.

Thus every use gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents. And these combined effects are fast creating a new dental era.

You'll quickly see

These benefits are quickly seen and felt. One week will convince you that Pepsodent does what nothing else has done. The results will amaze and delight you.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

times the impulse to serve seemed to have been deadened.

In the face of all this it is not strange that now and then we have become tired, almost indifferent to far away horrors which, were they near at hand, would absorb our efforts to the exclusion of all else. There have been moments when it would have seemed a luxury to become delightfully and abominably selfish.

But these moments of indifference are merely momentary concessions to a feeling of exhaustion. They have been "cat naps" from which we are again awakened by the persistent cry of distress. We may neglect for a time, but we can not turn a deaf ear, for there is in us all a consciousness that when we fail to do our part there will be visited upon us, some time, somewhere, something akin to the sufferings to which we had turned deaf ears.

And so the country has awakened, again alert, to the cry from Smyrna. It is aroused to a spontaneous movement, practically unorganized. The coming week will be devoted to succoring the victims of the "Terrible Turk." It will be Christianity's answer to the Mohammedan sword. There will be no canvass, there are no allotments. What each one of us shall give is a private matter between the individual and his Maker. In La Crosse, as elsewhere, depositories for donations have been established, convenient to all. The Christmas spirit is invoked in this great cause of humanity. We have given thanks in a national holiday for the bounties that have come to us. Soon, in a Christian holiday, we shall celebrate the birth of a new hope for mankind. It is the period of "good will toward men," and generosity to all of those to whom specifically, or by reason of the responsibility of citizenship, we are indebted. There could be no more fitting time in which to answer the plea of women and children who, on the frontiers of the Christian world, perish by the hand of the invading Turk. It is the Cross that speaks to you.

Nicotine

IMPORTANT knowledge for smokers. Dr. William J. Robinson, editor of Medical Critic and Guide, writes: "Tobacco smoke owes its powers not to nicotine, which is almost entirely decomposed by the heat, but to the products, pyridine and its homologues which are formed. There is proof that smokers and workers in tobacco enjoy comparative immunity from epidemics." If you consulted Dr. Robinson professionally, however, he would tell you that seemingly harmless things are injurious when used to excess—even food.

The Wisconsin Business University booked its 111th student yesterday and is now making arrangements to secure additional room which will be absolutely necessary.

The marriage of Miss Bertha Priebe and Mr. Anton Hansen took place at the German Lutheran church this afternoon. The couple will live at Ninth and La Crosse streets.

Introducing Mr. Grandage

BY JANE OSBORNE

"We might as well ask Miss Wynn," commented the elder of the Emmett sisters, "it isn't as if it was a regular party, and she'll understand, of course, that our asking her to an affair of this sort doesn't put her or us under any sort of future social obligation."

"Well, all right," quoth the other Emmett. "And she'll probably be so flattered to be asked that she'll buy a lot of the pans and kettles. I imagine she has quite a little money."

So that is why Miss Emmett No. 1 telephoned to Mary Wynn that night, something unprecedented in the six months that Mary Wynn had come to live in Farnham.

"I thought perhaps you'd be interested in coming around to our house Wednesday," said she, taking pains not to let her voice carry too much cordiality. "There is a young man who is agent for the Gold Star Kitchen Ware who is coming for a demonstration. He asked me to get together some of the ladies in the neighborhood. And he says," emphasized Miss Emmett, "that if it will be any inducement there will be refreshments and that you're not to bring your purse. He doesn't want to sell anything now. He came to me naturally as president of the Farnham women's club and, wishing to help any young man working his way through college, I told him he could have his demonstration at our house."

Miss Emmett did not add that she had consented most willingly as the young man in question had agreed to give Miss Emmett five per cent of any sales that resulted from her demonstration party, and that he was, moreover, going to prepare and provide materials for the refreshments served.

Miss Wynn tried to hide her excitement and happiness from Miss Emmett on the telephone. She had come to Farnham six months ago to live in a house that had been willed to her by an uncle who had lately died. But so far Farnham had not received her very warmly. They eyed her with suspicion. Old Mr. Wynn was something of an eccentric. There were tales of Mary Wynn's high flown notions. She had lived abroad, she could talk French as well as she could English, and she came to Farnham with rather shabby clothes. Therefore Farnham eyed her with suspicion.

Now it seemed to Mary Wynn as if the ice was broken, as if at last Farnham were opening its arms.

It was an odd enough party at the Emmetts' that Wednesday afternoon. Twenty chairs or more had been carried into the kitchen to accommodate the guests and late comers sat in the open door or perched upon the drain board of the kitchen sink. Mary Wynn, who had arrived early in a crisp summer frock, sat close to the stove where nothing that the young man from Hilton college said or did could escape her. To the others seated farther back he may have seemed self possessed and perfectly at ease, but to Mary Wynn it was obvious that at times he felt the awkwardness of his position—he a novice in the art of cooking, a greenhorn in the kitchen, telling these seasoned housewives how to make better omelets than they had ever made before, assuring them that coffee as it was made at Farnham could never equal coffee as he was making it in one of the new Gold Star coffee pots, and Mary Wynn thought once or twice as he stirred the eggs for the omelet or measured the coffee to put in the coffee pot that the boyish hands trembled with confusion.

Apparently he was not entirely familiar with his sales talk for he consulted from time to time the notes that he had before him neatly written on pages from a university notebook. Once or twice when there was an awkward pause in his sales talk his eyes inadvertently met those of Mary Wynn and then a boyish smile came into his eyes and Mary Wynn flashed back a look of encouragement that cleared the air.

Mary was thinking that it would be a very great thing for any woman to have a son so bent on getting his education that he was willing to forego the pleasures of a young man's life. For Mary Wynn, though not more than twenty-five, usually thought of herself as very much older. Her own youth seemed very far away.

Then an end came to the demonstration and the amber clear coffee was poured in Miss Emmett's second best tea cups and the feather light omelet was cut in sample pieces and passed around. Assurance came into the face of the demonstrator when he saw and heard the praise of the women. "Now," he said, "I'll pass these blank cards and a pencil. Will you each one write your name and address on a card?"

Having collected the cards and having looked them over with some interest, he went on. "Now I want to call on each one of you personally—this was all, of course, only part of the selling plan laid out at the headquarters of the Gold Star office." Mrs. Brown, when may I call on you? I want to answer all your questions. I want you to tell me your problems, I want you to tell me your troubles, I want you to tell me your needs. There was a sort of personal appeal in the words that made Mrs. Brown giggle and say, "Any time."

And so on. Robert Grandage went the rounds, making definite appointments to call on each of the guests present, with the object, of course, of making sales of the kitchenware for which he was agent.

"Have I arranged with everyone?" he asked.

There was a pause and then Mary Wynn looked up. "You haven't arranged with me," she said, then blushed unaccountably. Robert Grandage showed confusion too. "You are Miss Wynn—I didn't really forget," he said. "I didn't have the card with the rest." He apparently put her card away from the others for safe keeping in his waistcoat pocket and that was why he had not called her name.

"When do you want me to come?" he asked.

"I'm not going to let you out of it, you

THE BOOK OF JOB IS THE DRAMA OF A MAN'S SOUL

"The Book of Job," which will be presented by Stuart Walker at the La Crosse theater under the auspices of the Community Council is not a play or a theatrical performance in the accepted sense of the word. It is the drama of a man's soul presented with a reverence and beauty and a method new to the theater in the very words of the Old Testament. The full significance of this great drama is made clear by its presentation, with wonderful lighting and ancient Hebrew music. The object in dramatizing Job, says Mr. Walker himself, was to visualize the spiritual message of faith and patience.

"I do not want to delve deeply into Hebrew customs," says Mr. Walker, "nor into the possibly authentic method of presenting the drama of Job. I merely want to make the presentation with all the reverence and all the feeling that is in me. To me the drama is a spirit and not a method. It is the eternal way to make things past, the present and the future, facts and fancies alike, actually be before the eye and ear of the audience. I do not present Job with any attempt to give accurately detailed scene and costume and Hebrew custom. I present it only for the spiritual accuracy of a man who has patience and faith and who suffers, but does not fall under trial. Like the world today, perhaps, Job is a man of all time. Therefore I shall make him and his men friends of all time who speak our own thoughts to us and who bear the Eternal Voice as we, too, might hear it out of the passing whirlwind."

Let's talk of cabbage and kings,
Or dimes or sealing wax or shoes,
Or politics or motor-springs,
Or almost anything you choose;
Come on, speak up—know or guess
On Abel and Levi, Rembrandt or Titian,
The Turkish Mess, the football news,
But let's not talk of Prohibition.
The world is full of many things,
Of books and papers to peruse,
Of soap, cigars and wedding rings,
Of strikes and fights men win or lose;
Then wherefore should we speak of
It loses me unto inanition.
Discuss it? No sir! I refuse,
So let's not talk of Prohibition.
It is a subject some one brings
Into each group and then pursues
Till I am sick of it for a while,
Which I in flight may swiftly use;
I get the willies and the blues,
And quite without my own volition,
I seek retreat on these would-be steaks.
Please let's NOT talk of Prohibition!

WISCONSIN UNION AMERICAN EQUITY SOCIETY TO MEET

Will Open 17th Annual Convention at Fond du Lac Tuesday Morning

FOND DU LAC, Wis.—An address on "Harmony and Reconstruction," with an explanation of Equity's program for 1923, will open the seventeenth annual convention of the Wisconsin Union American Equity Society here on Tuesday.

M. P. Sharp, former national president of the Equity society, is to give the address, which Equity members hope will smooth over differences and pave the way for a turn in the society's affairs.

The convention is to be held at order at 10 o'clock on Tuesday by President E. C. Pommeroy. After a speech of welcome by the mayor of Fond du Lac, Mr. Sharp will give his address, concluding the morning session.

MR. LEADER TO SPEAK

W. H. Campbell of Michigan, president of the National Milk Producers' association, opens the Tuesday afternoon session with an address on the milk industry. His talk will be followed by a report of the committee naming the temporary bodies which will have charge and report on convention business. H. A. Moellkopf is then to give an address on the "Importance of Organization in the Dairy Industry."

At the night session a debate is to be held on the question: "Resolved, that the dairy industry, business and other interests of the dairy country should be located in Wisconsin." The committee will select speakers in the debate and their addresses will be given in the evening.

Reports on Wednesday

The second day of the convention will be devoted to reports. The annual report of the Wisconsin Union American Equity Society will be given by the president, followed by the report of the executive committee, the secretary and the various departments of the society.

John A. Carr of Milwaukee is to give the address on the subject of "The Milk Industry in Wisconsin," at the opening of the Wednesday afternoon session. An excellent program will then be given by the various departments of the society. The committee reports will follow, with a general discussion of the reports and talks on the ground and within the organization.

Organization of the society, with the question of the Wisconsin Union American Equity Society, will be the subject of the evening session. The committee reports will follow, with a general discussion of the reports and talks on the ground and within the organization.

Elect on Thursday

Selection of officers, the most important part of the convention, will be held on Thursday afternoon. A large number of candidates have submitted names for the various offices. Many of these are expected to vote for persons not previously holding office. It is expected to produce the best result in the history of the society.

On Friday and Saturday business will be transacted and disposed of, followed by a banquet and a ride in the morning. The board of directors meets Friday afternoon to discuss an eventful day and to discuss policies. The executive board then meets, concluding the work of the convention.

The great singer, hardly less famous for her personal beauty than for the beauty of her voice.

TWO INJURED IN LOS ANGELES RACE MURPHY IS WINNER

Herschel McKee, Racer, and Hugh Curley, Mechanician, Hurt in Tuning Up

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Physicists Monday were watching closely the conditions of Herschel McKee, racer, and Hugh Curley, his mechanic, the city victims Sunday of the automobile race at the Los Angeles speedway which was won by Jimmy Murphy. The accident came before the actual start of the race and when McKee and Curley were tuning up their cars for the contest. McKee was crushed in the other in a most unexpected manner and McKee and Curley were carried off the speedway seriously injured. McKee's injuries were not believed likely to prove fatal, physicians said, but Curley was thought to have suffered a fracture of the skull and internal injuries. A new 12-cylinder airplane has been involved in the crash, weighing 1,600 pounds.

HIRST PANS RAIL OBSTRUCTION TO HIGHWAY ADVANCE

State Engineer Urges United States Ownership or Subsidy to Stop Drag

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—An attack was directed against American railroads by A. R. Hirst, chief highway engineer for Wisconsin, in an address here Monday before the ninth annual conference of the Association of State Highway Officials, charging that the American carriers were impeding every move for highway progress.

Mr. Hirst, who has had executive direction of Wisconsin's entire highway system for the past ten years, urged that highway officials of the country help to formulate and support national legislation either to bring federal ownership of the railroads or to provide a subsidy to the roads in order that the transportation needs of the country might be met.

Railroads "Dead"

"The railroads stand for nothing, do nothing, give nothing, build nothing," the speaker declared. "They are not a pulsing part of the American business fabric, but a dead body clogging the stream of progress. Most of the railroad executives are running around weeping and wringing their hands because the motor trucks and the motor busses are making it impossible for them to operate at a profit. At the same time, crops rot in the fields, roads are idle, manufacturing plants shut down, because the railroads have no equipment to transport with when transportation is offered and needed."

"It is incredible to believe," Mr. Hirst said, "that the federal ownership of railroads could produce any worse or more expensive railroad transportation than we are now suffering from the lack of. The question is, whether the American people and the American construction industry are going to allow their business to be indefinitely strangled by their inefficiency."

Turning to a discussion of highway financing problems, he declared that the limitation in taxes for highway purposes, "is not the amount of money which can sensibly be levied in highways, but it is the amount of taxes for highway purposes which the citizens of a state can afford to pay."

Urges Auto Taxes

"It is my conviction," he continued, "that the states must meet the financing problems by imposing upon motor vehicles a much larger portion of the cost of rural highway construction and maintenance than is now imposed. It would be difficult to run any public enterprise in which the benefits received can be more directly traced to the beneficiary than can the benefits due to the construction and maintenance of roads be traced to the principal user of the road—the motor vehicle owner."

Higher taxation upon motor vehicles always means a fight with motor vehicle interests. One of the most distressing manifestations of lack of appreciation and of common sense has been the unwavering attitude of every association engaged in the manufacture and sale of motor vehicles against any program of taxation upon them.

"They are fighting fair imposts in 1922 just as they have fought them in 1902, in 1912 and in every other year. If they had had their way in the past America would still be a sea of mud and many Michigan millionaires would still be shoeing horses and mending wagons."

The T. T. club, a girl's organization of Onalaska, held its annual Thanksgiving feast at the Dabbly home, the evening of November 28th. Covers were laid for fourteen.

Five hundred was played and the favors were won by the Misses Esther Otto and Flora Brooks. The booby prizes were awarded to Evelyn Gjestvang and Anna Johnson.

This club was reorganized a few weeks ago with the following as members: Marion and Nellie Dahlby, Evelyn Gjestvang, Esther Otto, Edna Snuggard, Esther Marcus, Sadie Hoffmann, Flora Hammond, Lorraine Praeger, Elsie Hoffmann, Mary Whitbeck and Joyce Davidson. The following officers were elected:

President—Esther Otto.
Vice president—Marion Dahlby.
Secretary—Evelyn Gjestvang.
Treasurer—Nellie Dahlby.
Meetings are held on Tuesday evenings in their private club rooms.

THINGS MUSICAL

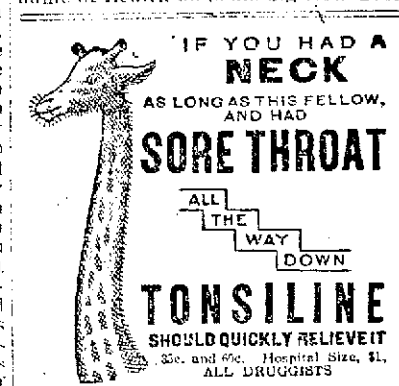

By H. MARGARET JOSTEN

This paper has from time to time in the past few years attempted to further the cause of "Music, the great uplift" in La Crosse by putting its benefits on a strictly practical basis, by pointing out to the citizenry that as an advertising proposition "music pays." The method is rather general throughout the country and now the wit of Sinclair Lewis has made it classic in his novel "Babbitt." Chum Prink's speech to the Zenith Rotary club luncheon meeting covers the ground well.

"Some of you may feel that it's out of place here to talk on strictly high-brow and artistic subject but I want to come out flatfooted and ask you boys to O. K. the proposition of a symphony orchestra for Zenith. Now, where a lot of you make your mistake is in assuming that if you don't like classical music and all that junk, you ought to oppose it. Now, I want to confess that, though I'm a literary guy by profession, I don't care a rap for all this long-haired music. I'd rather listen to a good jazz band any time than to some piece by Beethoven that hasn't any more tune to it than a bunch of fighting cats, and you couldn't whistle to save your life! But that isn't the point. Culture has become as necessary an adornment and advertisement for a city today as pavements or bank elevators. It's culture, in theaters and art galleries and so on, that brings thousands of visitors to New York every year and to be frank, for all our splendid attainments we haven't yet got the culture of a New York or Chicago or Boston—or at least we don't get the credit for it. The thing to do then, as a live bunch of go-getters, is to capitalize culture; to go right out and grab it.

"Pictures and books are fine for those that have the time to study 'em, but they don't shoot out on the road and holler 'This is what little old Zenith can put up in the way of culture.' That is precisely what a symphony orchestra does do. Look at the credit Minneapolis and Cincinnati get. An orchestra with first-class musicians and a swell conductor—and I believe we ought to do the thing up brown—and get one of the highest paid conductors on the market, providing he isn't a Hun—it goes right into Beantown and New York and Washington; it plays at the best theaters to the most cultured and moneyed people; it gives such class advertising as a town can get in no other way; and the guy who is so short-sighted as to crab this orchestra proposition is passing up the chance to impress the glorious name of Zenith on some big New York

I could also go into the fact that for our daughters who show an interest in highbrow music and may want to teach it, having an Al local organization is of great benefit, but let's keep this on a practical basis, and I call on you good brothers to whip it up for culture and world-beating symphony orchestra!"

HORSE CLIMBS INTO

AUTO NEAR MERRILL.—An unusual automobile accident occurred on highway 10, when two women attempted to pass a farmer's team with their automobile. They went to the extreme right and stopped, but at the rear of the wagon was a horse running loose. The horse, blinded by the light, jumped on the hood and pushed its head through the windshield to see who was within.

ROLLED STOCKINGS AND SHORT SKIRT AN OLD STORY IN HAITI

Women of Island Adopt Flapper
Styles Long Before the Flapper Was Invented

CAPE HAITIEN—Haiti often has been referred to as a backward nation, but in the case of the Haitian woman, the predominant peasant class long has adopted the American flapper in all of her most distinctive traits. The flapper took them to her feet, short skirts are a necessity to the woman who spends her days playing in a garden or riding a burro. They were then short in Haiti when Andrew Jackson was in the White House, and the style has not changed.

It was in 1915 that the peasant woman began to "roll her own" in the year the occupation forces of American marines and sailors brought a gold-trail of American coin to the impoverished island. Regiments and ships bought freely in the markets, and the women reaped the benefit. Haiti is a country of caste, and possession of shoes and stockings marks a social advance for the peasant class. They invested their earnings in them, but drew the line at garters, and necessity taught them a substitute.

It is now a common sight to see women of Haiti on the roads leading to the city markets, seated side by side on their gray burros, with stockings at the city limits, don white while the burros amble patiently on, and then give them the flax twist and roll before leaving their backs. When the day's work is done, the peasant is accomplished as the flapper. Her skirts drop behind and stockings are packed away until the next stage.

There is one distinctive feature of women in Haiti. The Haitian peasant wears a headscarf that will barely find place in the sophisticated eyes of the American flapper. Frequently, one sees among the universal faded blue and white attire, one of red, white and blue, with the three colors arranged in fantastic patterns of stripes and squares, usually topped by a light-colored headscarf. A peasant woman thus attired, accented by a heavy burden on her head from fancy, strides along in this gay costume with the carriage of a Greek goddess. She is a "penitente" who has broken one of the laws of the peasant code of conduct, and her defiant costume openly proclaims her status. That she has backslid from this serious code and is going it out by public penance.

STATE GAME BOARD BRINGS THE STATE $696,108 SINCE 1920

MADISON, Wis.—Outfitting its activities during the past biennium, the state conservation commission Monday announced that within that period it had collected, exclusive of fees, $696,108 which has been turned into the state treasury.

They imposed for 1,591 convictions for violation of game and fish laws, $50,000, all of which was placed in the school fund, the record said. Total arrests, numbered 2,200, with convictions of 1,591, and fines collected, $12,720.

Bending losses, brought in $3,000, 75 trapping licenses, $10,975, 100 rabbit trapping licenses, $13,102, and 100 trapping licenses, $12,617.

HENRY FORD WANTS LOWER CAR FARE

DETROIT, Mich.—Further expansion of the municipal street railway system should be the policy of some legislative body, Henry Ford, president of the Ford Motor Co., declared today in the course of a speech before the Detroit City Council.

One of the first things to be done, he said, should be to lower the fare on the street railway. Ford declared, in discussing the appointment of Mr. Couzens as United States marshal, is to cut fares in half. This, he said, would be a very desirable thing to do.

Planning aid to the municipally owned traction system, Mr. Ford said a large amount of additional power is being installed in the River Rouge plant of his company, which he would gladly furnish the city at a moderate figure. "Our workmen," he said, "furnish a very considerable part of the street railway's business. When they are not using our power in the shops they might as well be using it on the street cars going to and from work, and with power at the lowest possible cost they should ride at the lowest possible fare."

"CHARMS"

Strictly speaking, most authorities agree that "charms" should be applied to an object which has as its purpose the defense of its possessor against evil, and his protection from any menace. This carries with it, according to some authorities, a clear explanation of the tortuous, useless of the charms and more or less religious grotesqueries of the charms of more than one group of primitive peoples. The theory was that such charms would act as a kind of "binding" or "locking" of evil forces, on the principle that like attracts like, they would prefer to seek the charm than its possessor, and to such extent rather than its possessor, and such an amulet they were harmless. —Lead on the Reporter.

THIS IS THE WOMAN WHO SETS THE WORLD'S STYLES

BY MARIAN HALE

Don't expect any radical new styles to issue from Paris for the next two months—there aren't going to be any.

Because Mademoiselle Cecile Sorel, star of the Comedie Francaise, and darling of French theater-goers, who has set the styles not only in clothes but in people and art as well for the past 20 years, will not be there to start them. She is making a two months' tour of the United States and Canada, and France must hold up its sartorial activities until she returns.

"I have launched every new style for the past 20 years," she told me. "I give to Paris, and Paris gives to the world. I am responsible for the long skirts you are struggling with today, and for the short ones you have just discarded. In Paris, the fashion craze is over and there is no reason for short skirts now."

Asked to venture some information about what is in the future for her style, she refused.

"Styles are like fascinating women," she replied, "their charm lies in their unexpectedness. Clothes are never so intriguing as when they are illogical—when they make you like them and want them, even though you disapprove of them."

"When I left Paris the finest artists, designers, jewelers and manufacturers submitted to me their choicest materials to select from. All France took it upon herself to see that the 34 costumes I brought to this country should represent the very pinnacle of French artistry in dress."

"French people have great respect for the taste of Americans. They know they want only the very best. And France does not want America to become independent in the matter of fashion."

"The most startling thing I brought with me is a lot of diamonds and pearls, worth $100,000."

The crowns and hats were shipped immediately to Canada, in the care of two detectives, and New York gets no glimpse of them until she returns here for her month's engagement.

When I saw her at the Ritz she was reclining on a chaise longue, with the knowing grace of a woman who reclines because it is becoming, not because she is weary, attired in a negligee of blue and silver brocade and pink satin slippers outlined with pink swansdown.

About her throat were garlands of pearls and on one hand she wore a ring with an emerald the size of a plum, on the other a pair of similar outline. The only diamonds she wore were set in her pearl earrings.

Judged by our standards, she is not beautiful, but she has the vivacity, charm, assurance and the ready wit that characterize the women of her country.

"American women are beautiful, stylish and distinguished," she said. "They are so well groomed as well as well groomed. New York is wonderful. The most vivid sensation of beauty I ever experienced was when we came up the bay."

Mademoiselle Sorel is the first visitor from France who has not complained about our prohibition (?) "Why should you drink wine?" she asked. "There is champagne in your dress after."

"Do not worry about styles," she assured me in parting. "I originated a number of things before I left, and when I return, I promise you the most startling inspirations of my career."

Chamber of Commerce will have its regular monthly business meeting and dinner at the chamber tonight at 6:30. Several important matters are scheduled to be discussed following the dinner.

MEMBERS OF ROYAL FAMILY IN BRITAIN SET MEN'S STYLES

As Goes the Tailored Prince, so
Follows the Rest of Masculine Population

LONDON.—The male members of the royal family have for generations set the styles for masculine wear in England, and therefore indirectly for the entire world. This has never been more pronounced than at the present time, and the fashion makers watch with uneasy eye for the least change, or the appearance of a new style in the royal garments.

It was the Prince of Wales who introduced the small checked bow tie, the colored collars, and the fancy socks so popular a few years ago. Since the Prince first appeared wearing a morning coat, soft shirt, and turned over stiff collar, this has been the standard wear for the man-about-town. The Prince is in the habit of wearing his hat, particularly the silk variety, slightly tilted, and today old men and young men may be seen with head dress similarly arranged at any time of the day or night on the fashionable thoroughfares of the West End.

The latest contribution of the Prince to the fashionable world, however, is the dinner coat, or tuxedo, which has generally been avoided by the best dressed men as being too informal for formal occasions, and too formal for informal necessities. Few tuxedos have been worn in London in the past, as compared with their wide use in America and they were rarely used for the theatre.

The Prince appeared in one at a dinner party before his trip to the Far East, and since that time the dinner jacket has made great inroads into the popularity of full dress attire.

His Royal Highness appeared a few weeks ago at a dinner dance at a dinner suit of black with a faint white stripe, vest of black silk trimmed with a fine white edge, and a black bow tie, also with a white edge. Now the latest dinner suits shown are of this cloth. The dandies of the West End appear at their favorite haunts dressed in the Prince of Wales' latest.

The coat for winter street wear for the coming season will be of a heavy material, huge collar and probably belted, for the Prince appeared in such a coat at a recent gathering in Scotland.

Golf attire is not ignored by the royal family, and the newest outfit for the course is a knickerbocker suit of homespun, wool vest of bright colors, and checked cap. This is the attire worn by the Prince when he recently "played himself in" at St. Andrews.

It is to be noted also that the three other sons of the King follow the lead of their elder brother, and appear in public dressed to the most minute detail after his example.

When the late King Edward was Prince of Wales, he was generally known as the best dressed man in Europe and thousands of men imitated the least change of style which he effected. It was King Edward who brought the grey ascot hat into vogue, and white spats and the derby hat owe their popularity to him.

So closely was King Edward followed in the matter of dress, it is said, that the style to wear the last button on the vest unbuttoned, so universal in London twenty years ago, started from the fact that once at a house party the King, who was then beginning to take on his corpulent build, unbuttoned the button for the sake of comfort. That was enough, however, and from that time on the last button was only an ornament.

WISCONSIN COUNTY FARM BUREAU FOR FORD POWER PLAN

Wire Washington to Speed up Muscle Shoals
Matter

OSHKOSH, Wis.—Winnebago county farmers represented in the farm bureau organization favor accepting the offer of Henry Ford for the lease of Muscle Shoals and they want the matter disposed of promptly.

That was the action taken at a meeting Saturday afternoon here, when it was voted to send a night letter to Senators Leont and La Follette and Congressman Lampert, urging the Muscle Shoals matter be speeded up. It is to be followed by a resolution advising that the organization favors the Ford project.

The county farm bureau organization also went on record as opposed to the ship subsidy. Addresses were given by George McKerrrow, state president, and Chester H. Gray of Washington, legislative representative of the national organization. The latter told of what has been done for the benefit of farmers in legislative enactments.

When the late King Edward was Prince of Wales, he was generally known as the best dressed man in Europe and thousands of men imitated the least change of style which he effected. It was King Edward who brought the grey ascot hat into vogue, and white spats and the derby hat owe their popularity to him.

STATE DROPS ITS OBJECTION TO PLAN OF MILK CO-OP

Market Department Dismisses
Complaint; to Change
Charge System

MADISON, Wis.—The state department of markets Monday dismissed the complaint made by Rock county farmers against the Milk Producers' Co-operative Marketing company, an Illinois corporation, which it charged had illegally entered into contracts with 4,500 southern Wisconsin dairy farmers for the disposal of their milk. This action by the department leaves the way open for the company to proceed unhampered with its organization.

While holding that the so-called service charge for handling milk, imposed by the Illinois concern, is unfair if added to a base price of milk so unreasonably low that a non-member farmer cannot accept it, but instead is forced to enter the company, the department decided that this was not an inherent vice and could be corrected.

Reference to the contracts of the co-operative milk marketing company, which the department at the time of the hearing on the complaint against the company, held to be illegal, is withheld in the present order. This matter is not again referred to.

To Stop Coercion
"The order dismisses the complaint against the company," Alvin C. Reis, attorney for the marketing department said in a statement, "primarily upon the ground that the fact that the service charge was added to a subnormal price was not an inherent vice in its operation, but represented a situation which the company could adjust in its future service charge contracts so that it will not continue its coercive practice of making the service charge plus minimum base price equal only the market price, in consequence whereof the outsider gets a price intolerably below the market price."

A further ground for dismissal is stated to be the company's contention that it was not denying the service charge to outsiders who rendered a service but was merely stipulating that it should receive a service charge for its own members.

The complaint alleged that the defendant milk company had entered into discriminatory agreements with a milk dealer at Beloit, whereby the dealer was compelled to pay to it a so-called "service charge" in addition to the highest price which the dealer was allowed to pay any producers for milk. It was claimed that the imposition of this charge was designed to penalize those producers of milk who were not under contract to the defendant company and to coerce them into signing contracts with the company.

When the late King Edward was Prince of Wales, he was generally known as the best dressed man in Europe and thousands of men imitated the least change of style which he effected. It was King Edward who brought the grey ascot hat into vogue, and white spats and the derby hat owe their popularity to him.

MAROONS OUT-LOOSE WITH LONG FORWARD PASS ATTACK

Joe Sternaman Features in the Battle

CHICAGO, Ill.—Chicago's Bears, playing one of the most brilliant games of the post-grad season, wrecked the championship hopes of the Toledo Maroons at Cub park Sunday. Staging a complete reversal of the form they showed in the contest for the city championship, completing twenty-one forward passes and intercepting five passes of the Toledo aggregation, they won 22 to 0.

It was a game featuring Joe Sternaman, whose two magnificent off-tackle sweeps broke the morale of the Maroons, and whose throwing of forward passes led to the demoralization of Toledo.

The Toledo team, which played Canton to a tie, and which, reinforced by the addition of "Red" Roberts and two other stars of College colleges, played last football at times, weakened under the confounding aerial attack of the Bears and only had a chance to score. In that time, after two long runs, from Robert to King and back the Bears, back to within four yards of the goal line, the Chicagoans hurried back the next afternoon for a loss, and when the Maroons tried a forward pass over the line, which failed, the Bears preserved their 22-0 triumph.

Toledo Outclassed

The Bears, despite the fact that two back field men were in the line, and two of their stars crippled, played magnificent football and took advantage of the evident lack of coordination of the visitors. They outkicked, outmaneuvered and outthrew the champions. Their machine was in perfect working order while Toledo was missing on several cylinders.

Roberts, whose appearance in the game represented a large number of the team's injuries, the little and seemed out of place in the line, played Saturday and Sunday. His plunger, failed to reach the Bear line and only lay downing to King during the later stages of the battle recovered his footing.

Lanum Outpoints Roberts

The Bears, after being weak in kicking all season, used Lanum and his outkicked Roberts and Thomsen. The star of the visitors was Thomsen, who after playing a more efficient game, was taken from the field battered and dazed late in the final quarter.

The game opened with a sparring match, and after seven minutes, in which the Sternaman made a 22 yard sweep ground, right, and to make amends for missing a place kick from the 12 yard line, opened the forward pass attack. A long shot, Waluma to Hahn, landed the ball on the 12 yard line and Joe Sternaman running around "Red" Roberts' and behind beautiful interference, went over for the first touchdown. "Bush" Sternaman kicked goal.

Sternaman Intercepts Pass

In the second quarter Toledo opened its forward pass attack, but Joe Sternaman intercepted one of Roberts' shots and raced back 26 yards and, after fighting the ball forward a short distance, E. Sternaman dropped back to the 25 yard line and kicked a perfect goal from placement.

Hopelessly beaten, the Maroons cut loose a long forward pass attack and two throws from Roberts to King carried the ball first to the Bear 35 yard line, then to the 6 yard line, where the quarter ended.

BRINGING UP FATHER

CARDINALS LOSE TO DAYTON SQUAD SUNDAY, 7 TO 3

Former Purdue Fullback in Terrific Line Smashes;
3,000 Out

CHICAGO, Ill.—Terrific line smashing by Ken Huffins, former Purdue fullback, and Ted and Bacon, his flanking halves, carried the Dayton Triangles to a 7 to 3 victory over the Chicago Cardinals in a post-graduate football scrap of high degree at Crosley park Sunday afternoon. For more than three periods the Cardinals held a lead of three points, but they were powerless to check the irresistible assault of the Chicagoans in the final quarter. A crowd of 3,000 viewed the struggle, which was waged on a muddy grid.

Owing to injuries sustained in the city championship game with the Bears last Thursday, all the Cardinals regulars were not accounted for at Eddies Field's lineup when hostilities were launched. The Turkey day contest was a strenuous grind for the south siders, whereas the Triangles had no such action in three weeks and were in fighting trim.

DULUTH TO OPPOSE FARGO REQUEST FOR RATE READJUSTMENT

DULUTH, Minn.—Duluth will oppose to the limit the request by Fargo to the interstate commerce commission for a readjustment in freight rates, Fred S. Keiser, Chamber of Commerce traffic commissioner, said Saturday. Mr. Keiser will leave tomorrow for Fargo to appear at the hearing before J. B. Campbell, member of the commission.

Mr. Keiser characterized the Fargo complaint as unreasonable and ridiculous, adding:

"If Fargo should obtain this request, Duluth and the twin cities would automatically be barred from doing business in the states of North Dakota and Montana. Back of Fargo is Chicago, for if this complaint is allowed it would move Chicago two hundred miles nearer Fargo in the standpoint of rate ratios."

MERCHANTS BUREAU WILL HAVE DINNER AND MEET TONIGHT

The regular monthly meeting of the Merchants' bureau will be held tonight at 6:15.

The bureau is anxious to have every one of the 150 members present. Some valuable questions are to be taken up as well as a report on a matter which the merchants are very much interested in.

We want to have a large meeting and make it short and snappy, starting promptly at 6:15 and trying to adjourn at 8:00.

We have arranged a good dinner and plenty of it, and as this is the last meeting of the year, we want to fortify plans for the 1923 program.

EX-KAISER QUILTS SECLUSION UPON ORDER OF BRIDE

DOVER, N. Y.—By The Associated Press.—The band of Princess Hermine continues to be felt in the activities of Doorn castle and its chief occupant. The former emperor, at the insistence of his wife, is beginning to abandon his cloistered existence and to walk among the villagers. The townsfolk showed keen curiosity the first time Wilhelm was seen strolling through the streets accompanied by his dog.

MAGNATES MEET IN CHICAGO DEC. 13

CHICAGO, Ill.—President Ben Johnson of the American League announced Saturday that the annual meeting of the baseball magnates of his circuit would be held in Chicago on Wednesday, Dec. 13.

WARMEST NOVEMBER AT SUPERIOR SINCE 1871

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—November was the warmest month in Superior since 1871, with one exception, of November, 1899, with a mean temperature of 36.25 degrees above zero. This is 1.14 degrees warmer than the average temperature for November.

ST. LOUIS COUNTY RICH

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Chiles, towns and villages in St. Louis county will pay almost $700,000 more in taxes in 1923 than in 1922. Figures compiled today by County Auditor Walter H. Borgen show that $22,671,917.43 will be paid into the county next year as against $22,000,000.127 for this year.

RELATIONS BETWEEN ILLINOIS AND WISCONSIN PATCHED UP PLAY AT URBANA NOVEMBER 10

CHICAGO, Ill.—Football relations between Illinois and Wisconsin, bitter rivals in the western conference, were shattered and then patched up, after the football coaches retired for a secret session, however, with John Richards, the Wisconsin football mentor on the outside. It was again at the annual meeting of the "Big Ten" coaches Saturday to draft schedules for the 1923 gridiron campaign.

The break in the relations which was circulated before the schedule makers went into session when Coach Zupke of Illinois announced that the Illinois scheduled a game with the Nebraska, 1922 champions of the Missouri valley conference, to be played at Urbana October 6, and that Wisconsin was to be dropped from the Illinois schedule, presumably because of the charges of professionalism made by both universities in the midst of the football season.

TRAINING FOR HOME LIFE, ONE AIM OF EDUCATION WEEK HERE

"Education Week" is being observed in La Crosse and all other cities of the United States this week. The following article on training for home life is apropos of the aims of "Education Week" in this city.

Worthy home membership is one of the chief objectives of public school education.

There are homes which closely resemble, in function, railroad round-houses and coal stations. They chiefly serve as places for shelter from the elements and for cleaning, repairing and refueling human machines.

WANT MINOR LEAGUE MANAGER THIS YEAR AT DES MOINES

DES MOINES, Iowa.—Jack Graney, for many years with the Clero and Indians, and who became manager of the local Des Moines Western league baseball team last July, will not manage the local squad next season, it was announced Saturday.

The owners announced that they have decided to procure a man who has had more experience in handling minor league clubs.

MAN EDUCATED IN PRISON TO TEACH

SUPERIOR, Wis.—Robert Bennett, 38 years old, sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of George Tuttle, an aged homesteader in December, 1912, has been given a conditional pardon by Gov. John J. Blaine. It was announced on Saturday by attorneys for the prisoner.

Bennett had served ten years of his life sentence and had been known as a model prisoner.

Bennett and a man named Schafer killed Tuttle to obtain a mythical pot of gold the aged man was supposed to have hidden in his sack. Bennett, it is thought, will become a teacher of mathematics in a Wisconsin high school where he has been offered a position.

Bennett's first education was received in prison. During his ten years at Waupun he has perfected a table of mathematics designed to save considerable time and money in print shops.

BETTER CONDITIONS Needed

Better conditions for teaching home economics are needed. How can girls be given a love for home making and standards of home life in the rooms in which these are taught are in basements and near to furnaces, storerooms, etc? How can a teacher so instruct 25 or 30 girls from as many different types of homes, that her instruction will function in the home life of each girl?

How much (and how little) may be expected in establishing habits of good craftsmanship when one brief period per week is devoted to this work?

Every girl instructed in home economics from the sixth grade to ninth, inclusive, rooms so clean, so bright, and so attractive that girls had rather be there than any place else; classes

YALE UPSET BY HAWKS' REFUSAL TO RETURN EAST

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Yale's refusal to come east and meet Yale again in football next fall will cause changes in the Eli schedule plans. The Hawks had been looked upon to provide a headline feature for Yale next October. Although they drew only 55,000 spectators this fall, it was believed they would prove sufficient attraction to fill the bowl next season.

Yale's hope to sign the Army for another game rests with the war department. The two year agreement having expired this season.

Yale's schedule for next fall will be shortened, but the football officials are not yet ready to make an extended statement, although the presence of Harvard, Princeton, and Brown in series which have continued some forty years is taken for granted.

DRY PROPAGANDA STARTS RIOT IN BERLIN SUBURB

BERLIN—By The Associated Press.—The prohibitionists of Schoenberg, a Berlin suburb, having been prevented by the police from holding an open air meeting Sunday, engaged a flock of sandwich men to parade the streets with placards denouncing the evils of alcohol. This aroused the ire of the saloonkeepers and distillery employees who pounced upon the sandwich men and gave them a severe beating. The police finally intervened and restored order but only after the placards had been withdrawn from the streets.

A reduction in British insurance rates has been planned.

HUSKERS-ILLINI WILL NOT SCOUT BEFORE BATTLE

CHICAGO, Ill.—Coaches Robert Zupke of Illinois and Fred Dawson of Nebraska have scheduled a game of football for next Oct. 6 which will be among the most unique in history. The two mentors entered into a gentlemen's agreement whereby they will not scout each other's team.

They will also send to each other diagrams of the plays to be used, together with other information regarding the general play of their men. Neither will start practice before the other and everything will be done to acquaint each other with the offensive and defensive strength of their teams individually and collectively.

It will not be a test of the caliber of football as played in the two sections, but the game will merely serve as a means of conditioning the players for the regularly scheduled games.

FIFTEEN ASK PARDON
MADISON, Wis.—Governor Blaine is to hear 15 applications for pardon Wednesday, December 6, including requests for clemency from three persons serving terms for murder. The applications before the governor are fewer than for some months.

Reducing the Hazard

"The enlightened employer interests himself in the conservation of the health of his employees and in their safety, so far as he can provide them," says the Chicago Tribune.

For many years the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has followed this plan as a part of its established policy.

This Company maintains an exceptionally high standard of safety insurance. It not only provides safety devices but by encouraging the organization of safety committees in all of its refineries, it has been successful in reducing accidents in its refineries to a point which actually is below that of many businesses naturally less hazardous.

As an example of its efforts in this direction is cited the fact that all Standard Oil Company (Indiana) refineries are provided with elaborate fire-fighting devices, of which live steam and chemicals are notable refinements.

The Directors of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) recognize that an employee who believes himself to be well-treated and secure is a better worker and is more interested in giving full service both to the Company and to the public than is the employee who lacks this feeling of security.

The management of this Company believes that every constructive measure for the benefit of its employees is a definite factor in lowering the cost of doing business, in securing greater efficiency, and ultimately lowering prices of its products to the consumer.

Hazard reduction is but one item, though an important one, in the Company's complete program of attention to the well-being of its employees. Other items include liberal compensation, good working conditions, steady work, and insurance in so far as is possible against unemployment. In addition this Company has devised an annuity system to provide for the protection of those who have grown old in its service.

The efforts of the management to provide ways and means of eliminating the dangers of a highly hazardous occupation is reflected in the enthusiasm of the workers and the whole-hearted endorsement of 26,500 stockholders, not one of whom owns as much as 10 percent of the total.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Ill.—Large world's shipments together with a liberal increase of the amount of wheat on ocean passage and a decline in Liverpool quotations, had a bearish effect on wheat Monday during early trading here. Sellers, however, were cautious, being deterred by advices of further gains in Argentina. Some uneasiness over European political conditions tended also to check declines. The opening, which varied from unchanged to a decline of 1/8 to 1/4, was followed by a slight rise, and then by another fall.
 Subsequently, weakness in the New York stock market led to considerable selling of wheat but the effect was short-lived as a result of buying on the part of foreign exporters. The close was unsettled 1/4 to 1/2 cent lower with May 15 1/4 to 1/2 and July 15 1/4 to 1/2.
 Corn, though relatively firm, was influenced by weakness in wheat. Western demand was said to be less than last week, but the market was higher, May 65 1/2 to 66 1/2 and July 65 1/2 to 66 1/2.
 Oats, though relatively firm, was influenced by weakness in wheat. Western demand was said to be less than last week, but the market was higher, May 42 1/2 to 43 1/2 and July 42 1/2 to 43 1/2.
 Provisions were weak.

BRIDE'S DEATH IN FIRE FATAL SHOCK TO GRANDMOTHER

GREEN BAY, Wis.—Mrs. Pelagie Gilson, 77, grandmother of Odile Gilson, 19-year-old Dyckesville girl, who was accidentally burned to death last Tuesday two hours before the hour set for her marriage to a Dyckesville farmer, died Sunday night at the home of her son.
 Physicians declare the shock of the tragic death of her granddaughter was the cause of the aged woman's death.

OBITUARY

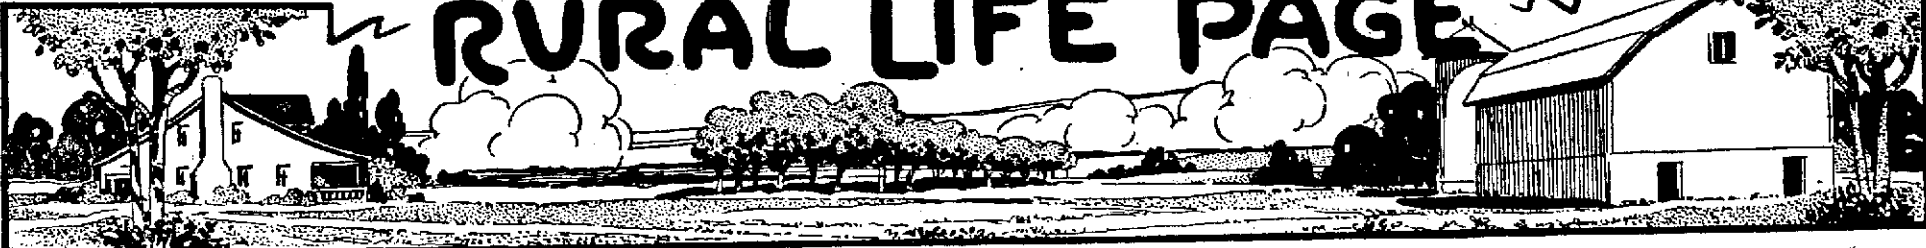

ANDREW LOVOLD
 Funeral services were held at the home, Friday, afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for Andrew Lovold, a resident of La Crosse for many years.
 Rev. L. G. Magelssen officiated and the Norwegian Lutheran church choir sang. Mr. Lovold had been a devoted member, almost from its beginning, in the establishment of the "Benedictine Society," a religious society of men and women, and the other "Den Starke Ild." He was buried November 26 in the cemetery at Riverside, Calif., beside his first wife.

WORK OF STOCK IMPROVEMENT AND T. B. ERADICATION STILL KEPT UP IN THIS VICINITY

REPORT OF COUNTY AGENT SHOWS GOOD RECORD LAST YEAR

Many Agencies Interested in Raising Standards of Livestock in La Crosse County

PROGRESS in livestock improvement and in T. B. eradication work in La Crosse county are shown in the report made to the county board by County Agent W. E. Spreiter last week. The part of the report dealing with the work of improving the class of livestock in this community, and in working to wipe out tuberculosis among cattle and hogs, is given below.

Livestock Improvement

"The purebred sire campaign started three years ago last December has been kept up in every possible way. The importance of the good purebred sire has been constantly kept before the farmers in La Crosse county. The public sales of purebred livestock put on by the different breed associations and individual breeders, together with personal efforts of the members of the various breed associations, newspaper articles, purebred bull signs, records of cow testing associations, livestock boosters' day, calf and pig club for boys and girls, exhibiting at the State fair, and especially the International Stock show in Chicago, poultry culling demonstration, etc., all tend to arouse keener interest in better livestock.

Community Meetings

"Addresses at schoolhouses and other community meetings, in fact at nearly all meetings, the importance of better livestock has been emphatically emphasized. This continuous boosting has assisted materially in impressing upon the average farmer the importance of owning and using nothing but good purebred sires.

"The importance of better feeding and better care has been driven home quite forcibly through the cow testing associations, creamery meetings, and other farm meetings.

"The farmers of La Crosse county are holding their own at the State and national shows, and in stronger competition this year than ever before. Each year new breeders are entering the shows with a few of their best animals, and almost invariably win their share of the ribbons. This again shows that the livestock in this county is improving in quality.

"The large portion of the livestock improvement work is done by the breeders and breed associations, pig and calf club members, and poultry fanciers. This is especially true when we mention winnings in the show ring. The extension work is of more benefit to the new breeders who are changing from scrub stock to purebred than to the professional breeder because the professional breeder is an expert in his particular line and does not need much assistance.

Testing Associations

"Four new testing associations have been organized during the past year. The West Salem association closed a successful year in September and has been reorganized and is ready to start work as soon as a suitable tester can be found. A new association in the vicinity of Mindoro is nearly complete and should be in operation soon.

"So far as La Crosse county farmers are concerned the Interstate fair at La Crosse is a local proposition, because it is within a short distance from any part of the county so they can go and attend and have an opportunity to observe and study the fine livestock exhibits which are shown there each year. Therefore this fair has a strong influence for better livestock.

T. B. Eradication

"The importance of having herds tested for tuberculosis is being emphasized at all times through the press, at meetings, through the various breed and creamery associations, cow testing associations and exhibits at the Interstate fair.

"That gruesome exhibit of diseased meat exhibited by the federal T. B. departments of Madison, which was shown in the main hall at the Interstate fair this fall was brought here mainly through the efforts of the county agent, and without doubt was conclusive evidence to all that saw it, that that terrible disease, bovine tuberculosis in cattle, should be eradicated as speedily as possible. There are now nearly 200 herds under federal supervision or applications in requesting the federal T. B. test with the hope of getting into the accredited herds' list."

Campaign Launched

"In August a campaign was launched to circulate the application blanks to secure 61 per cent or more of the 1720 farmers or cattle owners in La Crosse county to have a county-wide area T. B. clean-up made. There are yet about 15 school districts to complete the circulation of the blanks for signatures to put it over. The 1920 United States census report shows that there are approximately 38,515 head of cattle in La Crosse county, and figuring at the average price (about 75 cents per head, the usual charge made by the local veterinarian) it would cost the farmers of this county about $2,888.63 to have all the cattle in the county tested but once, without any rest.

A BULLIED BULL

May With, queen of equestrianism, had little trouble conquering King Jess Homestead De Kol, the $75,000 bull owned by John M. Kelly of Harrington, Park, N. J. King Jess was a gentleman first and last. He not only consented to Miss With riding him but made little complaint when she walked all over him.

No Aid Here

"The state and federal department has a corps of good veterinarians who are paid out of public funds but those men are working in other counties. La Crosse county is helping pay for their work, but is not and will not receive any of the service unless we apply for it. The big packers realize the big losses caused by T. B. and have made an offer beginning July 1, 1922, to pay ten cents per 100 weight above the regular market price, for all hogs shipped from certified T. B. free areas. The United States census report shows that on January 1, 1920, we had about 29,218 hogs, and assuming that they are sold at an average weight of 200 pounds, we would have an extra cash income of about $5,843.50 added to $28,886.25 equals $34,729.75. Is that worth going after? My answer is yes, but who will attend to it if the county agent doesn't? Besides that, it advertised all breeds of our livestock and dairy products which attracts the best class of buyers who are willing to pay the best price for our surplus, when they can be reasonably sure it is clean and free from disease. It advertises your whole county, country, villages and city as a leader in livestock and dairy products. The biggest reason for all this is not money but the health of our people, especially the children, our boys and girls. The question is, can we afford to have it? The answer is, we can't afford not to have it. Would your community receive that service without a county agent?"

MILLION DOLLARS IN FUND TO FIGHT CATTLE T. B.—PLAN

State Has Been Spending $350,000 Annually; Work Will Move Faster With Million

MADISON, Wis.—Hearings on the budget appropriations for all state activities were resumed before the state board of public affairs. The largest single request to come before the board is the plan for ridding the state of tuberculosis among cattle. The state is now spending $350,000 annually on this project, but it is believed that with $1,000,000 annually the work can be pushed much faster. Some additional buildings on the state fair grounds will also be asked of the board. A cattle barn is the primary request.

During the day the board will hear the requests of several additional departments and will then go into executive session with a view to whitening down the requests as much as possible. Gov. Blaine is now taking an active hand in the consideration of the budgets.

There is a prevailing opinion that the board will only act upon the operating and maintenance items which have been submitted and leave the entire capital, or building program, for the legislature to consider. Upwards of $5,000,000 has been asked for new buildings and furnishings. The bovine tuberculosis appropriation may also be sent to the legislature for consideration in its entirety. It involves a new policy for the state and the houses may be asked to take independent action on the matter, without any recommendation from the state board of public affairs.

Secretary J. B. Borden of the state board of affairs said that as soon as the executive meetings of the board had concluded their work, the budget requests would be printed and would be ready for submission to the legislature, when it convened here on January 11.

LA CROSSE COUNTY WELL REPRESENTED

La Crosse county is well represented at the National Dairy show, and Hay and Grain exposition which is now being held in Chicago in the persons of Jimmy Price of Onalaska, and E. E. Jones, and T. A. Jones of Rockland.

Mr. Price who is known as one of the best beef cattle breeders and feeders in the country has a herd at the national show this year which he believes to be the best he has ever shown, and is confident of walking away with some of the prize money with his Herefords. E. E. Jones is a well known Short Horn Breeder and has a string of fine animals with him at the show. T. A. Jones is exhibiting his blooded horses.

MARKET REVIEW OF PAST WEEK

CHICAGO, Ill.—Manifestation of an undertone of weakness, although the market on the surface remained firm, was apparent at the close of the week's butter market, according to the report of the United States bureau of markets. This was said to be due largely to indications that the domestic supply soon would be increased.

Dealers in a firm frame of mind however, were said to regard heavy withdrawals of storage butter, averaging 600,000 pounds daily, as a stimulus to the fresh butter market unless the demand is decreased greatly.

While quantities of foreign butter have been bought, most of it was not expected until too late to relieve shortage of fresh supplies. Markets in the leading cities closed as follows:

Chicago, 54 1/2 plus 1/2; New York, 53 minus 1/2; Boston, 52 unchanged; Philadelphia, 54 1/2 unchanged.

Wheat Market

CHICAGO, Ill.—Unfavorable crop reports from Argentina have attracted great attention in the wheat market this week, but the effect has been largely offset by increased supplies at domestic terminals and by some selling back of wheat that Europeans had purchased in the United States. Compared with a week ago, wheat Saturday morning varied from 3-4c net lower to 7-8c advance, corn was unchanged to 1-2c, higher oats at 1-4c decline to 3-8c gain, and provisions showing 10 to 27 cents upturn.

Announcement of an unexpected increase of the United States visible supply total put the wheat bulls under a disadvantage at the beginning of the week, and this handicap was added to as daily arrivals at primary centers continued to prove heavy. Nevertheless the market one time took notable upward swing when word came that rains and other adverse conditions were curtailing the yield in Argentina. Gossip about French plans to seize the Ruhr region tended further to give prices something of a lift and so, too, did talk of proposed farm relief legislation at Washington. Corn touched a new high price record for the season with demand active from the west and southwest and country offerings light. Oats followed wheat. Provisions were higher with hogs.

GUERNSEY SALE AT WEST SALEM HELD TO BE BIG SUCCESS

Sale Held Under Auspices of La Crosse County Guernsey Breeders' Association

A highly successful Guernsey sale was held recently, with an average of $168.57 received per head for the 37 purebred including baby calves and an average of $103.30 for the 56 grades including several little calves.

The sale was held by the La Crosse County Guernsey breeders' Association in the sales pavilion at West Salem Thursday, November 23rd. 57 head of purebred, including baby calves sold for an average of $158.57 per head, a total of $9095.56 and 56 head of grades, including some several baby calves, brought an average of $103.30 or $5790. The purebreds and grades together netted $14,840.00 to the consigners.

This sale is positively considered by all consigners, buyers, sale management and the Guernsey breeders to have been a highly successful sale without any question whatsoever. The prices received in general are considered very satisfactory in comparison with the general prices now being paid for dairy cattle on the open market and at private sale.

The highest price received for an individual animal was $330.00 received for Helen of Kirkwood Farm No. 08150, a fine five-year old cow, consigned by L. M. Wichern, and bought by W. E. Bossard, Tomah, Wisconsin. This cow deserved to be sold for a high price, as she was one of the prize attractions of the sale, both in individuality and records.

The high priced bull was Ultra's Royal of Edgemore No. 52754, consigned by A. L. Hyzer, and bought by G. A. Brinard, Chippewa Falls for $240.00.

The second high priced bull was Koko's Jim, No. 80334, one year, 3 days old, consigned by Ed. Young of West Salem and bought by Theo. E. Herwig, Reedsburg, Wis., for $210.00.

It was estimated that there were between 700 and 800 people at this sale.

MAY CAN APPLES AT GALESVILLE

Apples may be canned at the plant of the Galesville Canning company next year. This week the Onalaska Canning company took over all the remaining crop of Greenings from the orchards of Fred Sada, and a trial will be made at the Onalaska plant, which is closely associated with the Galesville factory. The result of the experiment will be made known soon. It has from the outset been the plan of the Galesville Canning company to extend its product beyond the packing of pears. If the apple experiment is successful, new machinery may be installed here. In that instance the surplus apple crop in and around Galesville will find a quick market.

Total of 27,275,000 tire casings were manufactured in 1921.

METHOD OF FEEDING HOGS HAS BEARING ON TRANSIT LOSSES

Those Forced to Hunt Food Have Stronger Lungs and Hearts, it is Said

CHICAGO.—The method of feeding and fattening hogs has a direct bearing on the loss of these animals in transit to markets, according to W. J. Embury, chief veterinarian here of the Western Weighing and Inspection bureau.

Hogs which are forced to forage for their food develop much stronger hearts and lungs than those placed in a pen and given food to fatten them, he stated.

"This kind of treatment develops the digestive organs at the expense of the organs of respiration and circulation, the lungs and heart," he continued. "Organs develop only sufficiently to meet the requirements of the condition under which the animal lives."

"The function of the lungs is to purify the blood of the body and in the hog perspiration being almost impossible, a large part of the excess moisture and heat passes off through them; a hog with undeveloped lungs will suffer more quickly and severely in hot weather than where that organ is well developed."

"The strain on these vital organs starts the minute the hog is exerted in removing it from the home pen on its trip to the market. The hog pants and becomes short of breath and if it is not immediately placed in a cool place where it can return to normal the hog will die of acute congestion of the lungs or other lung disease."

"Many shippers have used ice hung in bags from the roof of the car to make hogs more comfortable during transit in hot weather. The ice, distributed in six bags, has been found on actual test to last thirty hours in hot weather. The drip from the bags is scattered all over the car by the swinging and movement of the car and the cool air will settle downward, decreasing the temperature to some extent."

FARM BUREAU OF WINONA COUNTY MEETS TUESDAY

Farmers from all sections of the county are scheduled to gather in Winona Tuesday for the fifth annual meeting of the Winona County Farm Bureau at the armory.

The meeting will be opened at 11 a. m. with a report by Secretary William Wischow, to be followed by a discussion of business. The Utica Farm Bureau will bring.

A free luncheon will be served at noon. The afternoon program is scheduled to begin at one o'clock. The program calls for addresses by Miss Julia Newton, home demonstration leader from the agricultural extension service, St. Paul, and James F. Reed, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation. Miss Newton's talk is said to be of special interest to farm women.

Five minute talks are scheduled by Constant Gernes, manager of the Winona County Co-operative Potato Marketing association, on "Marketing the Potato Crop," and by Neil Henry, president of the Winona County Wool Pool association, on "Marketing the Wool Crop." Other talks will be given if time permits.

The annual report of J. B. McNulty, county agent, will be presented to the meeting.

The public is invited to attend all sessions, it was announced by Farm Bureau officials.

Charles E. Wirt, president of the county bureau, will preside.

HIGH MARK IN HOLSTEIN PRODUCTION REACHED BY LA FARGE OWNED ANIMAL

Another high mark in Holstein production was reached on Nov. 24, when Lady Jewell DeKol Colantha, No. 360979, a five year old Holstein of the Maple Park Stock farm, owned by J. W. Lawton & Sons of La Farge, broke the state record for a combined milk and butterfat record for both seven and fourteen day periods. The test was conducted officially. Two state testers were in attendance during the entire time to verify records made. After having released the testers the test was continued to complete a thirty day period and was found that the thirty day production also exceeded all former records of Holsteins for thirty days.

Lady Jewell for several weeks produced over a hundred pounds of milk per day, her highest production being 127.4 pounds of milk. She was milked four times each day at intervals of six hours each. During her best seven days of performance she produced $39.5 pounds of milk, test 3.25 per cent, or 26.04 pounds of butterfat. This quantity of butterfat calculated on the 80 per cent basis entitled the cow to 32.55 pounds of butter. To simplify this production her production can be spoken of as approximately 64 quarts of milk per day or 1 1/2 cans, in as much as a ten gallon can of milk weighs approximately 86 pounds. In terms of butter she has produced on an average 4.65 pounds per day. The state record up to this time held by May Echo Sylvia was thirty pounds of butter in 787 pounds of milk.

Lady Jewell's Record

Lady Jewell's fourteen day record shows 49.955 pounds of butterfat in 1699 pounds of milk, test 2.989 per cent. Her thirty day record is 101.153 pounds of butterfat, in 3435.3 pounds of milk.

A very interesting fact concerning Lady Jewell is her persistence in production. Her record shows that after having produced for 40 days she produced 124 pounds of milk per day with a test of 3.71 per cent of butterfat.

To the average dairymen who may question the condition under which this record was made it will suffice to say that the nine animals run on official test during this recent period of official marking received ordinary farm care and ordinary treatment. Six of the nine cows making records were kept in steel stanchions during the entire period and moreover, three of these cows that were given the comfort of a box stall did not receive this extra attention until their production began to approach the thirty pound mark. Mr. Ray Lawton in a brief statement expressed himself as follows:

"All of our nine cows run on official test are sisters and half sisters, that is, sired by the same sire, Schoharie Sir Colantha DeKol, No. 191300. Every cow did very satisfactorily during the entire time of test. I am very much satisfied in saying that although we have had good performance we have not taxed these animals to find out what their actual ability is. We have merely established a record and do not know what their limit may be."

Experienced Breeders

J. W. Lawton & Sons have been breeding Holsteins for a number of years, but not until 1906 did they begin to keep official record of their cows. The first seven day record of Maple Park Holsteins was made in 1919 during the month of October. Three cows were put on test and the best record produced was 23 pounds. The second experiment was run in 1920 during the month of July when six head were put on test. The best record in this case was 15 pounds. The third test or the test of which we have recently written, began October 1, 1922. The records of fed fed during these experiments together with detailed information relative to care will be given in an article soon to be published. It will suffice at this point to give the combined seven and fourteen and thirty day records of the four best cows tested. And also the seven day record of the other five cows included in this list.

Official Records

Lady Jewell DeKol Colantha, five years old—7 days, $39.5 pounds, 32.55 pounds butter; 14 days, 169.9 pounds; 30 days, 3435.3 pounds.

Lady Jewell Schoharie Canary, four years old—7 days, 68.7 pounds, 28.825 pounds butter; 14 days, 134.9 pounds; 30 days, 3222.8 pounds.

Lady Colantha Canary, five years old—7 days, 64.1 pounds, 29.75 pounds butter; 14 days, 127.02 pounds; 30 days, 2155.9 pounds.

Inka Esle DeKol 4th, five years old—7 days, 55.1 pounds, 26.26 pounds butter; 14 days, 105.9 pounds; 30 days, 2189.9 pounds.

Johanna Ormsby Rue Canary, five years old—7 days, 23.86 pounds butter.

Colantha Johanna Ormsby Rue, five years old—7 days, 20.45 pounds butter.

Jewell Canary DeKol, five years old—7 days, 23.65 pounds butter.

Skylark Ormsby Jewell 2nd, five years old—7 days, 21.85 pounds butter.

Lady Schoharie Jewell Canary, five years old—7 days, 23.42 pounds butter.

Rural School Notes

American Educational Week, Dec. 3 to 9, inclusive, is to be fittingly observed in the rural schools throughout the county. Suggestions to be followed have been sent to each teacher and it is hoped that the program followed will result in a greater interest in the work of the schools.

The teachers of the rural schools are to be given a visiting day and in connection with this visiting day group meetings have been planned at eight different centers.

Dec. 8—Lewis Valley school. Teachers, Miss Larson, Miss Jerstad.

Dec. 8—North Ridge school. Teacher, Miss Stromstad.

Dec. 11—Holmen State Graded. Teachers, Miss Gustafson, Miss Dinger, Miss Mortenson.

Dec. 11—Lower Big Creek school. Teacher, Mable Berg.

Jan. 12—Elm Grove school. Teacher, Mrs. Ellen Valley.

Jan. 12—Adams Valley school. Teacher, Selma Steltz.

Jan. 13—Walker school. Teacher, Evelyn Peterson.

Jan. 15—Fauver Hill school. Teacher, Ruth Saterstrom.

INCOME OF BADGER FARMER IS $1,863 PER YEAR—REPORT

Fifteen Other States Have Higher Yearly Income Says E. E. Witte, Library Director

That the income of Wisconsin farms is relatively low is the state made known by E. E. Witte, director of the Wisconsin legislative reference library. His conclusion is based on data gathered by the United States government. The average income per farm totals $1,863 a year. In 15 other states farmers have a higher average value of Wisconsin farms is $14,115.

Income derived from city farms with an average income of less than $2,000 a year is nearly four times as great as that derived from city persons with a yearly income of more than $2,000. The total income from the former class is $897,652,000 and that of the latter, $282,748,000.

Income from farm laborers totals $75,541,000, and from farmers $35,618,000. Corporate surplus amounts to $57,880,000. The total income excluding farmers and farm laborers is $8,658,358,000, including the agricultural class the total is $1,168,313,000.

According to Mr. Witte, the particular significance of these figures lies in the fact that they show Wisconsin one of four states, North Carolina, West Virginia and Alabama, in which only one-fourth of the non-agricultural income is received by persons whose annual income is under $2,000.

In Wisconsin this class actually received 27.23 percent of the total, which is lower than any other state except Alabama. Many states have as much as 50 percent of the total income in this class.

The average income of every man, woman and child is $557, or about $47 a month. The average income for every person gainfully employed, and by that is meant every working person, is $1,473, or approximately $122 a month.

These averages are the lowest of all least north central states and of all states east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio, except Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. They are the lowest of all west north-central states except Missouri.
